Hair loss is prevalent world-wide, and its effects are, in some cases, devastating to the patient's self-image, and despite the many treatment options, it can be difficult to determine which method is best for your patient.

The full-day dedicated to Hair Restoration brings together prominent international experts who give their insights for hair loss management based on research findings, so that you can apply evidence-based techniques to your practice. The series begins with the fundamentals in diagnosis, patient evaluation, building towards new therapies to treat alopecia areata, scarring alopecia, and recent findings in PRP and SVF for hair regeneration. In the afternoon, the courses delve into new developments in surgical FUE & FUT techniques, managing complications, and future options such as trichopigmentation and robotic hair transplant.
